

Job Search Activity

Saturday, December 31, 2011

Craig's List

Description:
Date of Posting:

Description:
Date of Posting:
Reply to:

Description:
Date of posting:
Reply to:

Description:
Date of posting:
Reply to:

Description:
Date of Posting:
Reply to:

Monster.com

Additional requisite information concerning search:

1. Walked to Midtown NYPL before breakfast at Third Street.

Observations:

2. Alex (my case manager) does not listen well and makes brash comments, because in my estimation, he needs to hold the upper hand always during the case meetings. Two instances are now positively documented. The first when he could not calculate the net and gross from my paystubs and then declared that I'd failed to produce a paycheck stub as a way of ending the meeting early. The second only last week when he didn't understand how I'd posted a copy of my resume to a website forced him to say with bravado and little substance how computer literate he is.
3. During this same case meeting on 12/27/11 he took personal pride in telling me how he would not supply me with a copy of ILP in a font that I could read without putting on my reading glasses.